

GIRLS! LEMONS

BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents. Shake well, and you have a quart of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.—Advertisement.

LIKE CLOUDS ACROSS A SUMMER SKY

Forstelling the clouded storm are the symptoms of women's diseases which point the way to physical and mental breakdown. The nervous irritability, the headache, the dragging pains, are not only hard to endure, but they bring certain knowledge of collapse unless something is done to relieve the sufferer. There is one standard remedy which has shown the way out for nearly fifty years. The women who have "come back" through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound present an argument stronger than words could ever be.

TERHUNE FLAYS
DIVORCE VIEWS OF DR. GRANT

Writer Takes Issue With Cleric
Who Would Liberalize
Church's Laws.

The suggestion of the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of New York, that the Episcopal Church liberalize its divorce and remarriage laws, which now forbid a divorced person to remarry except when he or she has proved infidelity, has caused nation-wide comment. Many persons support Dr. Grant's suggestion, while others condemn his views.

Because of the controversy his expressions have developed in the ever-recurring divorce problem, The Washington Times has induced a number of its authors to contribute their views on the question. The first article in this series, printed today, is by Albert Payson Terhune, noted novelist.

FEATURES IN ISSUE.

The features of Dr. Grant's recent article on the Episcopal divorce and remarriage laws are:
1—Many persons who might charge infidelity in divorce cases refrain from so doing and, out of kindness or to avoid scandal, rely on minor charges.
2—The present regulations are medieval.
3—The canon involved, 42, is based on a New Testament text which is of doubtful authenticity and expresses a Jewish racial custom rather than a universal truth.
4—The canon is un-American, undermines civil law and encourages civil marriages.
5—The canon deserts the theory and tradition of Protestantism.

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE, Famous Novelist and Short Story Writer. Marriage is one of two things. It is a civil contract—in which case it is to be governed strictly by the laws which bind any other civil contract. Or else it is a religious rite—in which event it must be governed strictly by the code which binds every other religious rite. In the case of Christians this code is found nowhere except in the Bible—notably in the New Testament.

Bible Refutes Grant. Dr. Grant does not invoke the civil contract. He seeks merely to prove that the Bible mandate does not apply to modern cases or else is mistranslated. In either event, the Bible itself refutes him. He appears to be in the somewhat dangerous position of a card-player who attempts to make up new rules as the game goes on. For example: In denouncing the Episcopal Church's rules against the remarriage of persons divorced for causes other than infidelity, he cites Christ's dictum on the subject; and declares that dictum to be of doubtful authenticity and to express "an ancient Jewish racial custom" rather than the teachings of Christ. The Bible itself refutes this. Note the following (Mark 10, from Verse 2, on); which shows Christ was preaching His own views—and no Jewish precedent:

Not Racial Custom. "And the Pharisees came to him and asked him: Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife? And he answered: 'What did Moses command you?' And they said: 'Moses suffered to write a bill of divorce, and to put her away. And Jesus answered and said unto them: For the hardness of your heart he wrote you this precept. For this cause shall a man leave his father and his mother and cleave unto his wife, and they twain shall be one flesh.' What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. If a woman shall put away her husband and be married to another, she committeth adultery."

This seems to express Christ's personal views on the subject with vivid clearness and to prove He was not following slavishly "an ancient Jewish racial custom," as Dr. Grant announces. If Christians are to follow Christ's commands concerning divorce, these commands are tersely and clearly set forth in the texts I have just quoted. There can be no double reading to those texts, nor others throughout the Gospels, which repeat the same doctrine.

If Dr. Grant chooses to come out with the theory that divorced persons should be allowed to remarry, that is nobody's business but his own. The civil law, in the main, will uphold him. But why twist the Bible into an alliance with his views? And why denounce the Episcopal Church, which is founded on the Bible's commandments? It looks like a case of "Everybody's out of it but Paddy."

Or, if he scoffs at ancient Mosaic laws, let him throw all the Ten Commandments overboard. For those were the very earliest "ancient Jewish racial customs"—customs which Christianity embraced wholesale, and which have not yet been superseded as guides to individual or community life. One can no more pick out the rules he chooses to live by, and discard the others, than he can select at will a poker hand from the full card deck.

Buzz-saw in Sight. Not being of the particular breed of fool who voluntarily sticks his forefinger into a whizzing buzz-saw, I have no opinion to voice as to the justice or injustice of present-day divorce laws. They suit some people to perfection, and they mangle the hopes of other people. Wherein they are like most other laws.

But they are laws of man, and not the laws of God. For God's laws, we can go only to the Bible, and a Christian to the New Testament. In particular, instead of abiding by those laws or turning his back on them and appealing solely to the laws of man, Dr. Grant says the New Testament commands are misquoted.

He goes on to say that, in any case, modern conditions cannot be governed by New Testament rules. But marriage and divorce are not "modern conditions." They are as old as history. Older than the Bible. And they have not changed to any appreciable extent since Moses gave his ruling on them; and since, later, Christ interpreted that ruling for His followers.

Dr. Grant first says the command is mistranslated and then it dealt only with an "ancient Jewish racial custom," and winds up by saying Bible rules can't cope, anyhow, with modern conditions. Such a tangled statement could scarcely escape ridicule in a grammar school debate.

In his repudiation of Christ's law and in his sneer at the Episcopal Church—a church which has given him a livelihood since his early youth—Dr. Grant shows as little loyalty to the Master he professes to serve as to the organization which has educated and fed him.

"BLACKMAIL," WIFE SAYS IN
$100,000 SUIT

Mrs. Candler Defends Husband Against Charge of Attack Made by Mrs. Byfield.

By International News Service. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—"At-tempted blackmail" is the characterization by which Mrs. Marion Candler, daughter-in-law of Asa G. Candler, millionaire Coca Cola king, of Atlanta, Ga., summed up her defense of her husband, Walter T. Candler, Atlanta banker, who, two weeks ago, was made defendant in a suit for $100,000 by Sarah Gillespie Byfield.

Mrs. Candler arrived yesterday from Honolulu. Mr. Byfield, in her suit for damages, alleges that Candler attacked her in a stateroom on the liner Berengaria on the night of July 16, while en route to France, and that she has been ill ever since.

"Of course, I still believe in my husband," said Mrs. Candler. "Why shouldn't I? I called him as soon as I heard of Mrs. Byfield's charges that I did not believe them."

"The domestic relations between my husband and myself are happy. My trip to the islands was for pleasure purely. I am certainly not contemplating divorce," said Mrs. Candler.

Mrs. Candler is en route to Pasadena today and said she was undecided whether or not she would proceed to Atlanta. That all depends upon the situation she finds upon her arrival in southern California.

CALCUTTA HAS CURFEW

AFTER A FATAL RIOT

CALCUTTA, Sept. 6.—The Muharram festival, celebrating the first month of the Mohammedan year, passed quietly here. At Calcutta, however, a town about twenty miles from Calcutta, serious rioting and clashes between Hindus and Mohammedans occurred during the course of a Mohammedan procession, when Hindus looted the bazaar. Armed police restored order after one person was killed and fifteen were wounded.

A curfew has been ordered between 9 o'clock at night and 4 o'clock in the morning, and the holding of meetings or processions or the carrying of weapons of any kind has been prohibited.
